Romulus joins in appeal

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

Romulus officials have taken a second stand against expansion of Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

During a meeting packed with supporters of a court case against construction of a 12,000-foot, $32 million runway in the airport, the Romulus City Council voted 5-2 to appeal a decision of a Federal District Court Judge Cornelia J. Kennedy allowing the work.

Councilmen Beverly McAnally, Joan A. Lee, Fred Junior Block and

William M. Oakley made speeches in favor of continuing the suit, and Mayor Pro Tem Gervazio (Jerry) Canejo joined them.

Councilmen Jimmie C. Raspberry and Robert Martin opposed the suit. The action will bind the council to defraying at least half of an anticipated $10,000 to $13,000 appeals cost, according to Jerrold Fadem, the attorney who handled the original case before Judge Kennedy.

Speaking after the meeting, Mrs. McAnally, a leader in the fight against the airport since elected to office in 1973, said, "The city has learned in the past that it cannot trust the operators of the airport to look out for its good.

"There have been promises made over all the years the airport has been growing in the community, and few of them have been kept.

"I'm afraid the only way the airport will be checked in its place, and the administrators bound to a means of operation responsible to the community is through the force of a lawsuit, where the airport operators realize they must take into account the feelings and desires of the citizens and elected officials in Romulus."

Attorney Jerrold Fadem, who handled the original case in Federal District Court said the costs will not skyrocket in the appeals process as they had during the original trial.

The original trial before Judge Kennedy had been slated as $30,000 when first conceived two years ago. However, attorney bills and witness fees went up to $57,000 before the judge made the final ruling.

According to Fadem, the appeals cost will be stabilized because litigants in the suit cannot add to the case as it goes along, as in the district court battle.

The appeal will be decided only on the facts of the original case.

The two council members who opposed the appeal had voiced concern about the extra cost and the concept of "government agencies fighting among themselves with the same taxpayers' money."

In addition, Raspberry questioned an appeal because it may remove a potential cause of damage claims for litigants in a future suit.

The persons who organized the original suit against expansion now are embarking on a plan to sue the airport's operators — the Wayne County Road Commission — for damages caused homes and buildings in runway paths throughout Romulus by high noise levels.

A similar suit pressed in Los Angeles on behalf of Los Angeles schools whose use was damaged by high noise levels from an airport, resulted in a $19.25 million damage settlement outside of court.

Raspberry had reasoned during a meeting with Fadem in late December that stopping the construction of the new runway would also stop airline overflights from that runway and limit residents' ability to claim damages from that runway's use.

Extra services' end reduces city budget

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

It was through the elimination of money set aside to provide extra service that Romulus city administrators have been able to show a nearly $84,000 reduction in the city budget.

Although the amended Romulus city budget, prepared by Mayor James C. Stewart and submitted to the Romulus City Council, shows a $53,000 reduction in administrative salaries when compared to the 1975-76 budget prepared by former mayor Terry L. Troutt, the single major cut in the Stewart spending program came in the Department of Public Works through the elimination of $101,000 set aside under the Troutt plan for storm sewer maintenance and improvement projects.

The better than $100,000 cut came out of a total $131,000 appropriation in the DPW budget for storm sewer maintenance — a fund established by the approval of a .6-mill tax increase by the Romulus City Council last June.

The other major reduction came through the total elimination of the Troutt's Department of Responsive Government — an agency Stewart termed "needless if the mayor is doing the job he was elected for" during the November mayoral campaign.

Stewart's spending plan shows a savings of $31,000 by eliminating the Department of Responsive Government at the middle of the 1975-76 fiscal year.

However the total $132,000 savings shown by the elimination of the fund and the department does not show up on the "bottom line" of the budget because of an extra $50,000 payment for the Romulus Urban Renewal program which had not been budgeted under the Troutt plan.

The single major administrative change shown in the budget is the creation of a Department of the Comptroller under the Stewart plan through the elimination of the Water and Sewer Department and the combining its functions with the Purchasing and Finance Department.

The Department of the Comptroller will handle the water and sewer billing function and the finance function while a City Hall and Grounds Department will handle the purchasing function.

Under the re-organization, Stewart shows a $190,000 cost for the new Department of the Comptroller compared to a $135,000 cost under Troutt's Purchasing and Finance Department concept and $78,000 cost under Troutt's Water and Sewer Department concept.

However, a major increase is shown in the City Hall and Grounds portion of Stewart's proposed budget with $38,000 being added to the original $135,000 set aside under the Troutt budget. The extra cost is to cover the cost of hiring a new purchasing director and a secretary to assist him under the new City Hall and Grounds concept.

In all, Stewart's budget shows a mid-year savings of $91,000 in personnel costs through the elimination of administrative posts and the transfer of some clerical posts to the federally-funded Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) for salaries.

Stewart's plan shows a $53,000 reduction in administrative costs through the elimination of two administrators in the Department of Responsive Government, a roads administrator in the Department of Public Works and an administrator for the City Hall and Grounds among others.

However, it is uncertain whether the transfer of one secretary and two dispatchers to the federal CETA program will be allowed, since CETA regulations require that anyone hired under the program be unemployed for at least a month prior to being hired under the program.

Despite overall administrative salary savings, under the Stewart plan, several department administrators, including some who stayed on from the Troutt to the Stewart administrations, received salary increases.

Salary increases are budgeted for the personnel director — $1,112, fire chief — $208, poundmaster — $208, DPW director — $208, recreation director — $1,480 and planning director — $208.

The fire chief, DPW director and recreation director are carry-overs from the Troutt administration.

In addition to salary increases for some administrators, the Stewart budget shows a $10,150 budget increase for the city attorney — up from Troutt's budgeted $62,000.

Sheriff seeks clues in slaying of man, 31

Officers of the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol are seeking a suspect and a possible motive in the slaying of a 31-year-old Pontiac man whose body was found in Romulus.

Members of the department were asked to check a ditch at the side of Middle Belt Road between Eureka and Northline roads after a Romulus citizen spotted what he thought was a body at 10:45 a.m. Saturday.

According to reports by the Sheriff's Department, the dead man was James Stacy Gordy, also known as James W. Wilder, 31, of Pontiac.

Officers of the department described the dead man, who was found clad in a pair of undershorts and wrapped in a sheet, as a known homosexual who was last seen in the company of a 340-pound female impersonator on their way to Detroit.

A spokesman for the Sheriff's Department said there were signs of mutilation in the slaying.

The time of death was not available.

Officials are seeking the person last seen in the company of the dead man to trace his whereabouts from the time he left Pontiac Saturday evening.

Stacy recently had been released from Jackson Prison.

Water, sewage rate to increase in future

Romulus residents will face increasing water and sewage disposal rates in the future.

Mayor James C. Stewart said he has received official word from the Downriver Sewage Disposal System that the city's charge for sending water to Wyandotte for treatment will be increased from 93 cents per 1,000 cubic feet to $2.13 for the same amount.

At the same time, the city is awaiting word on an anticipated 40 percent rate increase from the Detroit Water Board.

"We've sent representatives who have voiced objections to the meetings, but their complaints fall on deaf ears," Stewart said. "Rate increases like this are real rip-offs for the citizens of the community."

Stewart indicated he had no idea how much rate charges will go up for residents in the community, but said the city will begin studying the need

"within a week or two."

"We'll try to eliminate all the fat from the budget before raising rates, but the way it looks, there will be a need to increase the charges to residents," he added.

Belleville residents, who are part of the downriver sewage disposal system, have seen their water bills increase by 40 percent because of a similar 130 percent boost in charges to the city for the Wyandotte treatment plant.

No adjustments have been made in Belleville users' charges for the anticipated water rate increase from Detroit.

Van Buren Township water customers likewise are awaiting word on how much rates will increase because of the downriver sewage disposal system and the Detroit Water Board.

"What really bothers me is the amount," Stewart said. "In a letter detailing the need for the rate increase, the downriver sewage disposal system said it had received a $10 million grant for increasing capacity in its sewage treatment plant instead of an anticipated $14 million grant.

"I either will write to Congressman (William D.) Ford (D-15th District) or will ask the council to do so to find out why the downriver sewage disposal group did not receive a full grant for the sewage treatment."

"But at the same time, I wonder why rates go up 130 percent when you consider the $4 million loss in grants has to be made up by 13 communities."

"It seems inflated."

The mayor said he will be getting in touch with leaders from surrounding communities to determine what, if anything, can be done to counteract the rate increases.

Brrrrrrrrrr!

Romulus residents found it was one of those days where nothing seemed to help keep the cold on the outside as the thermometer hovered around 11 degrees last Friday. Bundled up against the chilling cold, that combined with winds had the effect of about 30 degrees below, Brian Farnan, 3, and Scott Bales, 5, donned woolen caps and scarves and made sure all their coat buttons were fastened before venturing outside. The Romulus Roman Chief Photographer Lothar Konietzko captured the shivering duo while on assignment last week.

On county hiring

Smith on panel to probe civil service

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has appointed Wayne County Commissioner Royce Smith and six others to a special committee to investigate policies and practices of the county civil service system.

Chairing the committee is Commissioner Arthur M. Carter (D-Detroit), who proposed the probe. "Civil service was originally set up to be an objective tool for the selection of county employees. However, numerous complaints received by me and other commissioners would lead us to doubt very seriously the objectivity and fairness of civil service practices and procedures," Carter said. "We will investigate every complaint received by this committee. This includes all hiring, promotional and job transfer procedures of the civil service system."

Each member of the review board presents a major county board, with the commissioner-members representing committees of the Board of Commissioners.

Serving with Carter, who is from Human Resources Committee, are: E. Smith (D-Belleville), who will act as vice-chairman and as the county labor board representative, plus four Detroit Democrats — Clemens E. Bykowski, of the Public Works Committee; Jackie L. Currie, of the Ways and Means Committee; Robert D. Mahoney, of the General Government Committee; and Rose Mary C. Robinson, presenting the Public Safety & Judiciary Committee.

Wayne County Auditor Leonard D. Proctor also will serve representing the county hospital governing board, the Board of County Institutions.

Roscoe L. Bobo, chairman of the Board of Commissioners, who made the appointments, said the work of reviewing civil service complaints by the committee would begin "almost immediately" and continue for 90 days.

Public hearings are planned throughout the county during day and evening hours to enable all those affected, including county employees and private citizens to be heard, Carter said. He added that the identity of those who testify will be protected when desired.

Carter cited a survey conducted by the Wayne County Office of Human Relations which shows that when the Wayne County Child Development Center closed down in 1973, that in transfers to other Wayne county departments, white employees were given a decided salary advantage over black employees.

"We will ask the chairman of the Board of Commissioners for subpoena power to open records and to require testimony from pertinent individuals within the county government," he added. "This committee will make recommendations to the Board of Commissioners regarding changes in practices and procedure that we find to be unjust." "We further intend to ask the State Legislature to bring state laws into line with the recommendations made by the National Civil League report, an action which is long overdue."

The League's study, commissioned by the Board of Commissioners in 1972, called the county's three-member Civil Service Commission "almost universally distrusted." In virtually every major function, the personnel system fails to meet general standards of acceptance and effectiveness," the report continued. "The personnel system is generally perceived as uncoordinated and confused."

Biker 'code' blocks probe into Sumpter Twp. death

A "code of the road" may be hindering the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol in its investigation of the death of a Westland man in Sumpter Township.

According to police reports, sheriff's officers are finding it difficult to track down two members of the Detroit-based Highwaymen Motorcycle Club for questioning in the fatal shooting of 22-year-old Dennis Anthony George of Westland because associates of the two bikers fear reprisal for giving information to the police.

"Through the grapevine we've heard that one of the suspects in the shooting has left the state, but we're having difficulty getting any concrete information because of the fears of witnesses and acquaintances of the suspects," said one official from the sheriff's department.

George was found shot in the chest by members of the Bikers United Motorcycle Club in Sumpter Township shortly after he left the biker's clubhouse Jan. 3.

According to witnesses at the scene, the dead man had left the clubhouse early in the morning Jan. 3 and was followed by the two members of the Highwaymen's Motorcycle Club.

The dead man allegedly had exchanged verbal jabs with the two bikers who are being sought in the shooting.

The dead man is a member, or associate, of the former Blue Angels Motorcycle Club — a Detroit based club which had been the target of biker violence prior to disbanding last year.

Winter sports fun calls for caution

With the arrival of winter snow at the metroparks, including Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville, Western Wayne County winter sports enthusiasts may be wise to brush up on their safety tips for the use of toboggans and sleds.

The one basic fact of safety is checking for hidden hazards, since snow may cover logs, stumps, stones or fences.

Check the snow condition before taking the first ride to avoid frozen snow and ice that can cut like broken glass, and don't go down any hill you cannot see the entire length of the ride. Also don't use areas, or hills, where there are bumps or drop-offs.

Chief Park Ranger Robert C. Skellenger of the Kensington Metropark near Milford also advises that winter visitors, read and obey all posted rules and signs.

Skellenger recommended that sledders wear warm clothing and footwear, protecting their face and hands with ear muffs, gloves and scarves.

Pads should be attached securely to toboggans and each toboggan should be checked for broken or cracked boards. It should not be overloaded and as with sleds, passengers should keep their arms and legs inside, holding tightly to side ropes.

Sleds and toboggans should not be used on the same runs since sleds cut ruts making it difficult to keep toboggans running smoothly.

In heavy use areas, sledders should allow groups ahead of them sufficient time to clear the hill before beginning their runs.

Free Press: Stick to facts!

The most basic requirement if a democratic form of government is to succeed is an informed citizenry.

Without the best information, citizens can't make the best decisions. In this country citizens draw their information from a myriad of communications sources, made up of newspapers, magazines and broadcast news programs.

Upper Peninsula residents will be deciding next summer whether they want to see Project Seafarer — an underground antenna to be used to send signals to submerged submarines — installed in the U.P. Only in a democracy would the citizens of an area be given a say in such a matter. Their decision will be only as good as the well of information from which they draw.

Sadly, someone is trying to poison the well.

The Detroit Free Press, with a series of poorly researched, one-sided articles, has been doing its utmost to portray Seafarer as some sort of sinister, Dr. Strangelove plot which would wreak unimaginable damage. Its reporters have taken statements totally out of context in some instances, misinterpreted them in others, and misrepresented facts in others.

We call attention to the situation reluctantly and only because it has been so consistent and because it appears it will continue unabated.

The Free Press effort started with a two-part series which was supposed to explain Seafarer. The first part dealt with what it is and with some arguments pro and con. The second dealt with the people supposedly backing Seafarer and painted them as a sort of underground, conspiratorial group plotting to foist this obviously terrible project onto an unsuspecting public. There was no attempt, either favorably or unfavorably, to outline the opposition.

Then the Free Press "discovered" a report suggesting prolonged exposure to a Seafarer-like system might raise triglyceride levels in humans. Such high levels have been suggested as a possible cause of heart disease. It described it as a report the Navy was trying to hide when in truth the Michigan Environmental Review Board had had a copy for three months. The real "secret" document was merely a list of areas of research the Navy was interested in and everything in it was already public in some form or another.

To top this off, the head of the Environmental Review Board, Dr. William Cooper, said later the study on triglycerides which the Free Press had waved about so gleefully was "garbage." Cooper said the research techniques used in drawing it up were so haphazard the study was worthless. But since the study appeared to look bad for the Seafarer, the Free Press hadn't bothered to check its worth.

The clincher came, however, when the Free Press took some statements by a Navy spokesman, apparently purposely misrepresented them, and printed a story saying Gov. Milliken and the people of the U.P. might not have the final say on whether Seafarer is built in Michigan.

What the spokesman, Lt. Commander Norm Karns, said when asked if Milliken could veto the project was "I don't think I can make a decision for the Department of Defense on a question of this importance without the Department of Defense first addressing the question."

What he meant was that as a middle level officer there was no way he could say yes or no without checking with his superiors — the men who could make that decision. But what the story said was that the project might be built even if Milliken and the U.P. residents didn't want it.

The story was printed only two days after the director of the project, Asst. Secretary of Defense Thomas Reed, had assured the governor's office he would have a veto over it. But the Free Press chose to headline its misrepresentation of what Karns said rather than what Reed, the man in charge, had promised.

The point of all this is that in its preoccupation with distorting some very minor points there is a great danger the Free Press will succeed in diverting the public debate from the real questions.

Those questions are:
— why does the Navy want to build Seafarer in the U.P.?
— will it cause irreparable environmental damage?

Seafarer is going to be built. The only question is where. Two western states — Nevada and New Mexico — have asked for it to be built there.

The Navy says it prefers the U.P. because it says it can save $300 million for the taxpayers by building it here. If nothing else, it would seem anyone who has been as critical of Pentagon waste as the Free Press would have an intellectual obligation to fairly consider a proposal to save that much money.

There has been a great deal of heat, but not much light on the environmental question. The truth is that right now no one knows what the environmental impact will be. That won't be known until the environmental impact statement is completed next May. That statement is being drawn up by the Navy under the close scrutiny of the Environmental Review Board under Cooper's guidance. Only when the massive document is put together can a decision be made on the facts.

Gov. Milliken made a plea for calm reason to prevail in a letter to Reed which bears repeating.

"Attempts to persuade public opinion prior to finalization of the environmental impact statement will not only detract from Michigan's ability to make a final decision based on a reasoned deliberation of the facts, but also tend to destroy the credibility of the EIS."

In other words, let's wait until we have all the facts before we start arguing and trying to persuade. And let's wait for the facts instead of dealing with emotion and half-truths.

That doesn't seem like too much to ask, even from an institution with the pompous tendencies the Free Press manifests from time to time. If it wants to call itself the Free Press, the least it could do is stick with the facts.

Senate should defeat mandatory pricing of items

For every new idea that lets a business improve service to the public and make a little money doing it there seems to be a movement to harass the innovator with restrictions based on "maybe this could happen" theories.

There's such a movement afoot in the Michigan Senate right now and it should be stopped in its tracks. There isn't much time left.

The innovation is a computer system that replaces the present chore of individually ringing up every purchase on the cash register. By passing the purchased item over a scanner the computer does the job automatically, furnishing a more detailed cash register tape than the old system. Pricing and item designation is given the computer by pre-printed codes on each item.

There are four advantages to this adaptation of modern technology to multiple sales items. It substitutes price listing on the store's shelves for item by item price stamping, eliminating costly and time consuming hand stamping and restamping; since a computer makes fewer mistakes than a human it improves accuracy of cash register totals; it cuts down on those long waits in line for your turn at the cash register because everyone will get through faster; and the stores get better inventory control.

That sounds like a pretty good tradeoff to us. Eliminating hand stamping will let the stores save money and divert part of the saving to better service in other parts of the business. Better inventory control will permit a reduction in spoilage, quicker detection of non-selling items, quicker shifts of inventory to meet customer demand.

The buyer gets faster service, more accuracy and an unseen and probably unfelt (pocketwise) reduction in future price hikes.

The system is working in approximately 35 stores across the country. Two Michigan stores have been testing it since early last year. They are checking it out to see if it works and how their customers feel about it. If it bombs in the market place the stores will swallow their losses and try something else. So far, buyer acceptance is growing according to surveys taken before and after the systems were installed.

But now comes SB 1155, poised for action in the Michigan Senate soon after the Legislature reconvenes. Its backers say the decision could "go either way by one or two votes."

The bill is as simple as it is devastating to the concept. It would require every store to put the price on every item, eliminating one of the biggest sources of savings to both the store and the customer.

Backers cite two reasons. They say eliminating item pricing will prevent the shopper from "comparison buying." They also say there "could be" some businessmen who would rig the computer to charge higher prices than shown on the shelf price lists, or who could otherwise bilk the buyer.

The bill's supporters have no hard evidence of either possibility being a fact. Only their beliefs and apparent distrust of the business community.

We don't buy either argument.

If the new system so completely curtails comparison shopping that the buyer is disadvantaged the protest should and will be registered right at the store. That's what the tests are for. To let the public decide — not the politicians.

And if there are some who would attempt to use such a new system to chisel on their customers we already have plenty of fraud laws and enforcement agencies to catch and prosecute them. Certainly there is something less than a crying need for another costly bureaucratic agency to enforce further unnecessary harassment of business.

You haven't got many hours to get your message to your state senator about this proposal. The message should be: "Kill it."

'Snowfall'

By Orval Sumner

As I sat looking out of my window,
Watching the beauty of the snow fall unfold,
I suddenly lost sight of its beauty,
When I saw the snow shovel by the door, in the cold.

To the editor: Thank you for publishing my previous poem. I believe my poem, "Snowfall," is self explaining.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Thank you, Mr. Sumner, for sending us your poem. We invite other readers who have written poems to mail them to us for possible publication in their hometown weekly. Include name, address, phone number and a brief explanation about when and why poem was written.

Take care!

By RUSSELL J. TUTTLE
Director of Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

It was a typical first storm of the winter: six inches of wet, very heavy, almost defiant snow had covered the ground during the night.

John Nelson (a pseudonym) looked out of the picture window in his living room, and decided to shovel his sidewalk before going to work that morning.

John had just finished a substantial breakfast — consisting principally of fried foods washed down with several cups of coffee — and he now was puffing on his third cigarette of the still-early morning.

At age 46 and some 25 lbs. overweight, John Nelson simply was in no condition to accept nature's challenge. Indeed, without knowing it, he was a prime candidate for an MI (myocardial infarction, or heart attack).

With angry, powerful thrusts he attacked the snow with a frenzy — he was bent from the hips and he pitched his white enemy as far as he could across the lawn.

In short time perspiration began to form on his brow. His undershirt became clammy, and breathing was labored and somewhat painful.

Suddenly, a pain radiated down the inside of his left arm, and his chest felt as if it were being constricted in a powerful vise.

John remembers letting go of the shovel and starting to walk toward the front door of his house.

And that is the last conscious event he can recall clearly.

He was transported to the Annapolis Hospital ER (Emergency Room) by the Fire Department Rescue Service, where, as a suspected MI, he was given immediate attention.

He was made comfortable and pain medication was given. IV's were started, oxygen was administered, blood was drawn for a complete laboratory work-up, an EKG was ordered, and chest X-rays were taken.

In short, John Nelson was the fortunate beneficiary of a medical service equipped with the latest in sophisticated electronics and machinery and staffed with professionals whose training and experience reflect the highest standards of their art.

After he was stabilized, John Nelson was transferred to the CCU (Cardiac Care Unit) from where he would begin his recovery and rehabilitation.

The head nurse in the CCU, Lois Schurig, RN, said: "The heart is a muscular organ which pumps oxygenated blood through the arteries, thus providing essential nutrients to the body."

"Infarction, simply stated, means that a portion of the heart muscle has been either partially deprived of its blood supply, or that the supply has been curtailed completely."

"As a result of either of these phenomena, the affected portion of the muscle — because it's lost its supply of oxygen — will die," she added.

She also said that possibly 65 percent of all MI victims experience a warning prior to the actual onset of an attack — a warning which is all too often self-diagnosed as indigestion or some other not-to-worry about incident.

"Heart disease is the no. 1 killer in America today," she said. "While we do understand that heredity plays an important role in one's ultimate physical condition, we also understand that there are some things people can do to help maintain themselves in a condition of good health."

The excessive use of alcohol, tobacco products and caffeine substances do little good, and most likely are to some extent harmful to the body.

Excess body weight — and especially as it approaches obesity — puts an unnecessary stress on the heart which may result in hypertension (high blood pressure).

Week-end athletes (those people who sit at a desk all week and engage in very little physical activity) too often over-exercise in their limited free time and thus place demands on the cardiovascular system which can not be satisfied by an out-of-condition body.

Taking good care of your body — and, after all, it is the only one you have — may not give you an extra 10 years of life; but, you will live whatever years you have coming much happier and with less physical distress in a well-conditioned body.

The only safe and intelligent way to determine the state of your physical condition is to be examined by your family physician. And, after you see the doctor, we might suggest that you follow his guidelines explicitly.

Event success

To the editor: The Romulus Ladies Softball League held an All-Star Game last year and raised $605 profit to be given away to charity. The final check was written, so I would like to tell those interested how the money was spent.

First off $200 was given to the Conley family to help their daughter who needed medical treatment. Her condition has improved some and we hope she will continue to do so.

Another $60 went to the Romulus Help Center to aid some family at Christmas time. And $140 went to the Family Neighborhood Services here in Romulus.

The rest of the money was spent as follows:
—$50 was sent in memory of Kimmi Ziebowicz to the heart fund.
—$50 went to the Foundation for Sudden Infant Death.
—$50 went to the Kidney Foundation.
—$50 went to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

I wish at this time to sincerely thank all the people who helped to make this event such a success. Without all of your help none of this would have been possible.

Hotel marks 200th with flag raising

The Hilton Inn at Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus, has joined more than 150 other Hiltons throughout the United States in a salute to the American flag to be held every day during the Bicentennial year.

The flag raising began at 8 a.m. Monday and continues each morning and evening until Dec. 31. The ceremony is begun by a narrator calling attention to what's happening. Fife and drum music is followed by the narrator with the meaning of the ceremony.

An employee, chosen for exemplary service, carries the flag to a spotlighted place of honor in the lobby, after which the bugle call,

"To the Colors", sounds. In the evening the ceremony is reversed and the flag is carried out. During the sessions, all activity in the hotel will stop for one minute so that guests and employees may pay homage to the flag.

Norbert J. Uhlenberg, general manager of the Metro Hilton, said: "We hope this ceremony will bring a pause in the day's business that will be given our guests time to reflect on the privileges of America and emphasize our appreciation for this country and its future."

Area leaders, politicians and members of patriotic organizations attended the opening ceremony followed by a continental breakfast.

City Hall to show display

Most politicians will state they were elected to serve the people and make efforts to give that appearance.

Mayor James C. Stewart has gone one step further to bring something of the people into his office.

Stewart is making arrangements with the art department of Romulus High School to bring original art work into city offices for display.

"There had been a rental agreement with the Detroit Institute of Art to bring pictures to the City Hall and change them every month," Stewart said. "But the pictures haven't been changed for months, so I told them to cancel the agreement."

"I think it provides an incentive for the students, and keeps Romulus for Romulus residents by asking for student art work for the city hall."

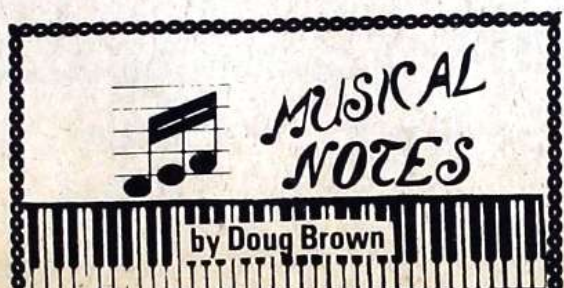

Boosters plan 'fun'

The Lincoln High School Band Boosters are sponsoring a "Family Fun Night" from 7-10 p.m. Jan. 17 at the High School auditorium.

Featured as part of the night will be unusual games, a cake walk, refreshments and the opportunity to use both the gymnasium and swimming pool.

Cost of the night will be 50 cents per person or $2 per family.

Information on the night can be obtained by calling Joanne Ladd at 461-9192.

The oldest musical society in the United States, the St. Cecilia Society, was founded at Charleston in 1762. It combined, historians say, private subscription concerts with the most elegant and exclusive occasions. One attendant at one of those functions described them this way: "While at dinner six violins, two hautboys, etc. After dinner, six French horns in concert, most surpassing music. Two solos on the French horn, by one who is said to blow the finest horn in the world." — It seems that tastes change, but expressions remain the same!

The widest range of musical accessories will be found at DOUG BROWN MUSIC, 9319 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus. Music stands, reeds, strings, picks, resin, mouth pieces, music lamps and piano benches as well as method books, sheet music, records and tapes are all available when you make DOUG BROWN MUSIC your one stop shopping center for all your musical needs. Phone 941-8484.

Keep stringed instruments — especially pianos — clean by using the blower attachment on your vacuum cleaner.

Edgemont Scouts active; Campout on recent agenda

Girl Scout Troop 369 of Edgemont Elementary School has been leading an active and interesting life since September. Among the girls' recent activities was a week end of camping and preparing their own meals at Camp Linden. They were accompanied by their leader Adrienne Whittico, assistant leader Donna Renton and several mother volunteers. For Thanksgiving the troop prepared food baskets and began collecting books, and games to be donated to the First United Methodist Church for nursery age children.

In early December, the troop held its court of awards which was opened with a flag ceremony by the Blue Jay Patrol. Girls receiving "my community" awards were Sylvia Besson, Kim Bourdeau, Janice Burgess, Vicky Donnelly, Bridget Florian, Pam Graham, Regina Halfacre, Jill Karolyi and Jane Kause.

Still others were Dorothy Knop, Missy McMahon, Stephanie Paton, Kelly Schank, Beth Thompson, Sandy Wackus, Donna Weber and Andra Whittico.

Those earning awards for "my community" as well as "troop camper" were Penny Ashe, De Ann Clem, Lisa Daroci, Jacqueline De Francisco, Pam Florian, Cathi Habel, Lisa Kelly, Charlotte McCarthy, Jill Remus, Terri Sierota and Rebecca Skeans.

Other awards went to Sue Kohr for "my community" and "my home"; Cindy Miller for "my community" and "cook"; Theresa Renton for "my community," "my home" and "skater" and Jennifer Touse for "my community," "troop camper" and "collector."

The scouts made costumes resembling the toys from Santa's pack for the annual Christmas parade in Belleville in which they participated. Now that their Christmas party and holiday festivities are in the past, the girls are looking forward to their new year which will start with a January campout at Hilltop Lodge.

New unit in La Leche starting

The La Leche League of Belleville, a group of women willing to assist others in learning about the value and practice of breastfeeding their babies, currently is holding a series of winter meetings.

The third unit, "Baby Arrives, the Family and the Breastfed Baby" will be discussed at 7:30 p.m. Jan 20 at 6106 Bob Drive. The meeting place is located off Julie Drive in Lake View Trailer Park on Textile Road.

The league has a lending library consisting of books on prepared child birth, nursing, child development and nutrition. There also is available a newly designed electric Egnell breast pump which proves useful in certain unusual situations.

Nursing mothers with questions, pregnant women who intend to breastfeed and women who want enough information to make an informed decision on whether or not to nurse future children are welcome.

For further information, call Mary Anna King at 697-9783 or Peggy Bodenmiller at 697-9546.

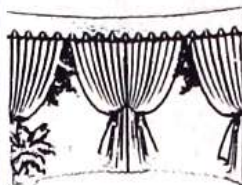

This is 'Park Project Week'

Mrs. Don White (left), president of the Woman's Study Club, and Mrs. Larry Boelter, vice-president of the Junior Study Club, look on as Belleville Mayor Justin Emerson affixes signature to a proclamation declaring Jan. 12-17 "Belleville Bicentennial Park Booster Week." The Mayor is lending his support to the two clubs who are attempting to raise funds for the Belleville Bicentennial Committee's park project which involves the city-owned land lying between High Street and Belleville Lake. It is being graded, landscaped and provided with a woodchip walking trail to make a pleasant place to walk, view the lake or drive by. Representatives of the clubs are calling on every home in the city this week seeking financial support and answering questions. On Friday and Saturday with assistance from the Rainbow Girls, they will seek contributions from shoppers in the area. Richard Carey and Peter Doyle have donated printing and stock for tags for the drive while canisters were the gift of McDonald's Dairy. Additional fund raisers planned by the women are the annual Junior Study Club card party Feb. 18 at South Junior High School and the Woman's Study Club presentation March 11 at the Belleville High School Auditorium of a film classic depicting life in the days of the American revolution.

St. Anthony's holds celebration

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

The teaching nuns of St. Anthony's Catholic School have a special year ahead of them — the 75th anniversary of the establishment of their order, the Sisters of St. Joseph, Third Order of St. Francis.

The history of the order is a story of simple faith and blind trust in Divine Providence cherished by valiant women who braved material uncertainty in order to bring moral and spiritual aid to countless people.

It was in 1901 that 40 sisters branched off from the School Sisters of St. Francis in Stevens Point, Wis. The original Motherhouse, it remained so until 1940 when it was transferred to South Bend, Ind. At the present time the convent in Stevens Point is a province under the Patronage of St. Joseph.

A new province opened in 1925 under the patronage of Our Lady of Czestochowa in Garfield Heights, Ohio. This bicentennial year also marks its 50th anniversary.

Ten years later, still another province was established in the Chicago area known as the Province of Immaculata in Bartlett, Ill.

The Sisters of St. Joseph maintain high schools, elementary schools and hospitals. The expanding spheres include the activity of administration not only in the field of education but also in the corporal works of mercy.

In marking its diamond jubilee, the order also can look back on 21 years of dedicated service to St. Anthony's Parish. The current teaching staff includes five religious, Principal Sister Mary Alexis; Sister Mary Raymond, first grade; Sister Mary Joan, second grade; Sister Mary DeSalles, fifth grade, and Sister Mary Pontia, eighth grade.

Other nuns who served for the past two decades were the first principal, Sister Mary Richard; Sister Mary Euphrasia; Sister Mary Antonine; Sister Mary Ildephonse; Sister Mary Ulrica; Sister Mary Virgiliana; Sister Mary Oswaldine; Sister Mary Philomene and Sister Mary Cherubine, who was the second appointed principal.

Still others who taught in the school were Sister Mary Erica, Sister Mary Corona, Sister Mary

Sigmund, Sister Alice Marie and Sister Mary Michelle.

In honor of the diamond jubilee, St. Anthony's Parish held a special celebration Sunday, Jan. 11, which began with a concelebrated mass by The Rev. Raymond Skoney and The Rev. Robert Sable. A tea reception in a festively-decorated Father Folta Building after services included a large anniversary cake, tables centered with floral arrangements and the presentation of new furnishings for the sisters' home — two occasional chairs, a commode table and lamp.

Parishioners in charge of the party were parish council member Mary Herring who was assisted with publicity and gifts by two members of the Mothers Club, President Sharon Collins, and Carol Sampson. Men's Club President Bill Szilins and Mothers Club member Jean Koski handled the decorating detail.

Later in the day Altar Society President Lucille Remus took charge of the dinner which the sisters hosted at the convent for some 45 visiting nuns. Guests arrived from Detroit, St. Clair Shores, Lincoln Park, Dearborn and the Motherhouse in Garfield Heights, Ohio.

In marking the 75-year anniversary, the local quintet will travel to various communities which are established for them and will participate in celebrations similar to that held at St. Anthony's.

Presentation on birds held at VB garden club

The Huron Valley Garden Club held its Jan. 5 meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Flavell of Biggs Street, Belleville. Twenty-two members and one guest, Mrs. Dale Rennel, attended.

Following the business meeting led by Mrs. William Hennells, president, the group heard a program on birds prepared by member Mrs. James Fitch. Her presentation included slides of a bird walk through a garden complete with sound.

At the close of the films, the group was quizzed on the various bird calls. Mrs. Melvin Budd, whose new home is in an area filled with unusual birds and who has become somewhat of a bird watcher, was the natural winner.

The Feb. 2 meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Helen White. Christine Diehl will review her experiences at Higgins Lake for the club.

Tkachuks welcome first child

Just two days after seeing in the new year, Jim and Jeannie Tkachuk changed from a twosome to a family. The arrival of their first child, a son, caused the change in status for the Belleville couple who reside at 46705 Kozma Road.

And though the new mother is now home, the infant is still at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor where he was born Jan. 2. He also spent several days in the intensive care unit of the University of Michigan's Womens Hospital.

Arriving three months early, the baby weighed a wee 3 lbs.-8 ozs. and will remain in an incubator until he reaches "going home" weight. Little Steven William was named for his two grandfathers—the late Steve Tkachuk and William Plymale of Sheldon Road, Belleville.

The new heir is the first grandchild for Agnes Tkachuk of Belle Villa Drive, Belleville, and the second for the Plymales.

Legislation provides $700,000 as incentive

Checks totalling more than $700,000 will be going out to Michigan counties this month under new federal legislation which offers incentive payments to local units of government in return for efforts in securing child support for families receiving Aid to Dependent Children (ADC).

In addition, almost 30,000 ADC recipients will receive checks of up to $20 each, a total of more than $500,000 in return for their cooperation in locating absent parents who have been ducking child support payments.

These payments, based on November child support collections, are being made under a new Social Security Act amendment aimed at shifting the burden of child support from taxpayers to those legally responsible and financially able to provide such support.

The law, which took effect Aug. 1, 1975, requires each state to establish paternity and secure support in ADC-related cases. The law also provides help to non-ADC families in locating missing parents who have not been making court-ordered child support payments.

To encourage the states to gear up for this program, the federal government is chipping in 75 percent of the cost, as well as half the cost of the incentive payments to ADC recipients and 100 percent of the incentive payments to local units of government which actually do the work of securing the support orders and collecting the payments. For its efforts, Wayne County has received payments of $235,988.72 and $266,100.06 during the first two months of the program.

The ADC recipient receives up to 40 percent of the first $50 on a support order for which there is a current payment. Counties receive 25 percent of the net child support collection, the amount of the child support collected minus the incentive payment to the client. After the first year the support order is in effect, the county share drops to 10 percent.

Seminars part of program for community education

A unique series of weekly seminars, featuring local issues of government and finance, is one of 50 adult classes offered by Romulus Community Education this winter. Most classes will begin the week of Jan. 26 and registration will be held Monday through next Friday.

The weekly series, to be called Romulus Round Table, will be taught by a local resident Charlotte McBride. For 15 weeks, topics such as local government structure, city services and school finances will be studied and discussed by Miss McBride and various local governmental officials. The class will be offered without cost to area residents and will count for high school credit if adults are working toward their diplomas.

Other activities sponsored by the community education department include a reading improvement program for adults, Head Start for 4-year-olds, Super Saturday for elementary youth and a wide variety of hobby classes such as cake decorating, sewing, yoga and pottery, as well as recently initiated courses like small engine repair and stained glassware.

Further information about high school completion, GED testing or hobby classes can be obtained by calling Bill Smith and Earl Lamb, community school director, or Cheryl Ward, community school secretary, at 941-1600, ext. 37. Credit classes begin the week of Jan. 26 and hobby classes start the week of Feb. 2.

A "Passport to the Past" gave close to 80 students in the Van Buren School District a "taste of the stage."

The students — fifth and sixth grade pupils in two Van Buren School District elementary schools — were part of a promotional production prepared for the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village by radio announcer Shelby Newhouse.

During a 2-day schedule of intensive shooting, the students were guided through their "acts" in an effort to portray the value of the world renowned museum and historical village as a teaching tool.

Under the coordination of Phyllis Greer, supervisor of the instructional materials center in Van Buren School District, the students of Gearold Cook and Mona Salisbury of Edgemont Elementary School and David Larabell of Sumpter Elementary School, took part in the production.

The film, produced by Shana Corp., will be distributed this month.

Agreement helps Ozga rail crossing

City, state and railroad officials have agreed on a means to improve the safety of Romulus' Ozga Road crossing the Norfolk and Western Railroad.

The three parties agreed to a shared fee on paving and constructing crossing gates with flashers at the city's only unprotected railroad crossing.

Officials of the Michigan State Highway Department and the railroad agreed to a $22,770 cost on the project with the city's share set at $4,550.

According to Mayor James C. Stewart, the work on the project is expected to begin this spring.

"This is good news to citizens who have had to worry about being caught unawares by trains using the railroad at the crossing point," Stewart said. "Not having at least a flasher at the crossing has been a major concern of mine for some time."

The Ozga Road crossing became a problem shortly after the highway department opened an expressway overpass which linked portions of the roadway that had been cut by the I-94 freeway.

The overpass was constructed as part of a general widening of the I-94 route and the construction of the new I-75 route through the city.

Until now, the crossing has been protected by only a stop sign and the railroad crossing insignia.

Drivers were required to stop and listen for railroad traffic to insure a safe crossing.

"With the paving of 300 feet of the road, and the crossing lights, this would open another safe north to south route through the city," Stewart said.

Methadone talks excite director

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

The director of Romulus' crisis counseling center, the Romulus Help and Job Placement Center, is happy that the question of the value of methadone treatment for heroin addicts is being discussed.

Leonard Melnick, who has been at the head of the crisis counseling center, jointly funded by city, county, state and federal grants for the past 2½ years, said public hearings being conducted by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners "help to generate discussion of the use of methadone."

The hearings are sponsored by Commissioner Jarrett Simmons' Human Resources Committee to learn what the everyday person thinks of methadone.

Being explored is the possible decision to phase out the use of methadone as a treatment for drug addicts within the next six months.

"I definitely feel that the use of methadone as a treatment should be examined, in terms of the quality of existing programs," Melnick said. "To make a methadone program valuable, there should be counseling, skill development and family help programs held in conjunction with it, to treat the entire problem of drug abuse."

Melnick's concern is that poor methadone programs utilize the treatment as a total "cure" for heroin addiction rather than a tool to use in implementing a permanent cure.

Methadone came into vogue as the "new treatment" for heroin less than five years ago when drug treatment agencies learned the drug could be used to eliminate the physical cravings an addict has for heroin.

Under present programs, the methadone either is used as a detoxification agent, offering a heroin addict a dependence free period of time during which he can cope with his addiction, and work himself free of the need for heroin, or as a maintenance agent, under which a heroin addict takes methadone instead of heroin.

"Methadone is valuable because it removes the physical craving for heroin and because it produces no 'high' associated with heroin usage," Melnick said. "But there are problems with the use of the drug when it is not considered one tool in a full treatment program."

"Poor quality methadone treatment programs merely transfer the addiction for heroin to another drug — methadone — while the good quality programs provide overall help which results in a drug free state for the patient."

Early in its program development, the Help Center planned to utilize a methadone detoxification program for Romulus residents in need of such a service.

However, just before federal funds were to be appropriated for the Help Center methadone program, the operators of the center decided to drop the plans.

"It wasn't a decision against methadone," Melnick said. "It was a decision to avoid duplicating services."

"There were three centers within a 10-minute drive of Romulus offering methadone programs at the time, and ours would have been duplicating their efforts."

Under the initial plans for the Romulus methadone proposal, the detoxification treatment — a 21-day methadone distribution to heroin addicts to aid them in recovering from their addiction — would be combined with intensive counseling and education programs, designed to eliminate the emotional causes of drug dependence.

When the methadone program was dropped from consideration, the counseling program was kept intact.

"It was the decision of the center's operators that methadone wouldn't be as valuable in the Romulus community as other programs," Melnick said. "We send our heroin addicts to other programs to aid them in their detoxification while concentrating on offering counseling and aid programs to the residents of Romulus."

The Help Center offers a full listing of family, individual and age group counseling programs as well as a job placement program and a senior citizen chore program.

"We feel the Romulus program speaks to the needs of Romulus residents," Melnick added. Melnick is a member of the Wayne County Substance Abuse Services Advisory Council (SASAC), which adopted a resolution last July calling for an examination of a phase-out of methadone maintenance programs while limiting the use of methadone detoxification programs to 6-month periods "except in extreme circumstances."

"I voted for the position statement," Melnick said. "The idea behind the statement was to examine whether methadone programs were doing any good."

Judge dismisses lawsuit against PCHA

A $1 million class action suit against the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) has been dismissed by Wayne County Circuit Judge Blair Moody Jr.

Moody held that Joseph A. Zrenchik of Livonia, who brought action for himself and all persons who are non-residents of communities that make up the PCHA who have been patients at the hospitals, could not prevail in his claim that he and other non-residents were denied equal protection of the law.

Twenty-three Western Wayne County communities belong to the PCHA, which operate Ann Arbor Hospital in Wayne, Seaway Hospital in Trenton, Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti and Outer Drive Hospital in Lincoln Park.

Since 1947, all property owners in these communities have been assessed a .4 mill property tax to support financially the hospitals' operation and bond commitment. Since 1957, PCHA has charged patients who are non-residents of member communities a surcharge of 20 percent of the patient's hospital bill.

Zrenchik claimed that he and other non-residents have had their equal protection rights under the Constitution violated since the surcharge applies to only non-residents.

Moody held that there was a "rational basis" for the surcharge based upon residency, since all residents of the communities which make up the authority have paid the millage taxes directly as owners or indirectly in a rental charge. "The purpose of the classification ... is to equalize or off-set, the .4 mill paid by residents that is not paid by non-resident patients," he added.

The PCHA presently has an outstanding revenue bond obligation, approximating $35,000,000. Proceeds from the millage have been pledged for the payment of those bonds.

If Zrenchik had succeeded, PCHA may have been required to return millions of dollars to past non-resident patients, having a drastic financial effect on the hospitals.

The 23-member communities include the Cities of Allen Park, Dearborn Heights, Ecorse, Flat Rock, Garden City, Inkster, Lincoln Park, Melvindale, River Rouge, Rockwood, Romulus, Southgate, Taylor, Trenton, Wayne, Westland, Woodhaven and Ypsilanti; and the Townships of Huron, Sumpter, Superior, Van Buren and Ypsilanti.

Medicare patients deductible is up

Western Wayne County Medicare patients with Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield "complementary coverage" won't be faced with higher hospital deductible and coinsurance costs this year.

Deductible and coinsurance costs are the patient's out-of-pocket expenses required under the federal government's Medicare program.

Starting Jan. 1, the government increased the deductible for in-patient hospital care from $92 to $104. At the same time, the coinsurance charge for the 61st to the 90th day of hospitalization (per benefit period) increased from $23 a day to $26 a day.

The deductible and coinsurance are both paid under the Blue Cross-Blue Shield complementary coverage.

Approximately 950,000 persons in Michigan are covered by Medicare and about 60 percent have Blue Cross-Blue Shield complementary coverage.

The government also increased the coinsurance liability for Medicare skilled nursing facilities. The patient's expense will increase from $11.50 a day to $13 a day for the 21st through the 100th day of care.

Persons with Blue Cross-Blue Shield complimentary coverage which includes benefits for skilled nursing facilities will have the coinsurance paid under the Blue Cross-Blue Shield policy.

Medicare was introduced in 1966 as part of the Social Security Act. It was designed for persons 65 and older and the disabled.

The latest changes affect the Part A portion of Medicare, the basic coverage for hospital, post-hospital and nursing home care, plus diagnostic services, home care and psychiatric hospital care.

Part A automatically is available to persons who reach age 65. There is no cost for this portion of the benefit.

Part B is a supplement which primarily covers physician and medical services. This benefit supplements home care and covers diagnostic tests, surgical dressings, ambulance service and the rental of medical equipment. It's optional and can be purchased for about $7 a month.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield offers complementary coverage for either or both benefits.

Aliens must report their home addresses

Aliens residing in the United States once again will have to report their addresses to the U.S. Attorney General, according to Armand J. Saturelli, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

All aliens except accredited diplomats and persons accredited to certain international organizations must report their addresses by the end of January on forms which can be obtained from any post office or Immigration and Naturalization Service office.

According to Saturelli, the law provides for severe penalties for those people who fail to comply with the reporting requirements.

CUFA offers health tests

The Communities United for Action (CUFA) Mobile Medical Unit will be parked at the Huron Sportsman Club between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. tomorrow.

The mobile medical unit will offer pap smear tests, blood pressure checks and other medical checkups for persons desiring them.

The Huron Sportsman's Club is located at 19835 Sterling St., Huron Township.

Scouts at Hayti perform skit

A skit about Santa Claus delivering his Christmas presents by jet plane was part of the activities at the recent meeting of Cub Scout Pack 830 of Hayti Elementary School.

The skit was put on by Den 1 of the group. They were lead by den mother Barbara Panot. Cheryl Taylor served as Santa for the production, which included reindeer and elves.

Following the regular Scout activities, the youngsters sang Christmas carols and were visited by the Jolly Old Elf himself. All of the scouts received presents from Santa Claus, while the other children were presented with candy canes and had a chance to sit on Santa's lap.

The raffle winners also were announced at the meeting, with the poinsettia plant going to Ernest Randolph, the Christmas cookies to Gary Taylor and the centerpiece to Jean McFarland.

Awards presented at the meeting went to Matthew Maner and Sean Vernott, who netted their bobcat pins and badge; Steve Lawson who earned his wolf badge and pin, and Peter Kosciolk who collected his gold and silver arrows, 2-year service star and 2-year perfect attendance.

A 1-year service star went to Jeanie Kosciolk and Steve Lawson with denner's cord and recruiter's badge going to Mike Chaffins.

During the meeting Debbie Lawson was presented with a plaque of appreciation for playing the piano during the carolling. Also receiving a plaque from the scouts was Santa Claus.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gray have signed up as committee members, while Pete Kosciolk is the new Webelos leader. The Grays are old timers to the pack.

Township to review hall alarm system

Van Buren Township is taking steps to avoid breakins at the township hall similar to two instances during the past year which resulted in thousands of dollars of damage in each case.

The Van Buren Township Board of Trustees unanimously approved a resolution, calling for consideration of installing a burglar alarm system in the township hall at the best possible cost.

Township Supervisor G. Elton Gollwitzer appointed Board Trustee Fred Domen, township economic developer Joe Didia and Henry Davis to a committee which will review the purchase before submitting it to the township board for final approval.

Belleville cage upset bid falls short

Plymouth Salem survives scare, 70-65

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Plymouth Salem proved Friday night before a capacity crowd at Belleville High that it is the class of the Suburban 8 Conference.

But Belleville, in sustaining its second conference basketball loss, confirmed it is a power to reckon with this season.

Belleville came within three baskets of upsetting the undefeated defending conference champs who are ranked the No. 3 power in the Class A state ratings this season.

"We made our mistakes," said Belleville Coach Tom Niemi, "but we have nothing to be ashamed of in losing to Plymouth. Salem has an excellent team. And I'm happy that we still have a second shot at them."

Jim Ellinghausen, considered one of the finest ball players in the state, led Plymouth's attack as he hit on 17 field goals and three free throws for a game high 37 points.

Belleville had four players in double figures. Narvell Turner had a field day with 22 points while foul-troubled Dennis Easley and James Thompson added 11 and 12 respectively. Kevin Barnes chipped in with 10.

Belleville stayed close the first eight minutes of the game as Thompson pumped in 10 points to offset, in part, Ellinghausen's 13 first period points.

Salem broke away from a 19-18 lead to walk off the floor at intermission with a 39-31 edge. The Rocks outscored their hosts 18-11 in the third period but, sparked by Kevin Barnes, Belleville cut the margin down to five by outscoring their visitors 23-13 in the final eight minutes.

The Rocks had a torrid 61 percent shooting accuracy from the field.

Belleville made 27 of 65 from the floor for 42 percent.

Easley, though he managed to hang on to finish the game, found himself in early foul trouble and sat out most of the second period and was handcuffed with a fourth foul midway in the third period.

It was the first time in three years that Plymouth has won on the Belleville floor.

Romulus routs Robichaud for parents' night victory

Romulus cagers put on a show for their parents Friday night and a miscalculation by Coach Jesse Meriweather turned it into an interesting evening.

Ahead by more than 15 points going into the fourth period, Meriweather turned loose his reserves who had problems protecting the comfortable lead.

Midway in the final stanza Meriweather had second thoughts and returned his starters to the field and they sealed an 80-73 nonleague victory.

"I wanted everybody to get into this game," Meriweather explained, "but it almost backfired on me."

In that final period, Robichaud's Chet Cash caught fire and drilled in 16 of his 20 points to spark the Bulldogs to a 34 point period.

Up to that point it was a one-team show. The Eagles, led by Wendell Buckley and Michael Morrison leaped to an 18-5 first period lead and for all purposes the game was over then.

Buckley wound up with the game's high of 24 points while Mel Stewart and Morrison each had 16 points. Billy Anderson also figured in Romulus' balanced scoring with 12.

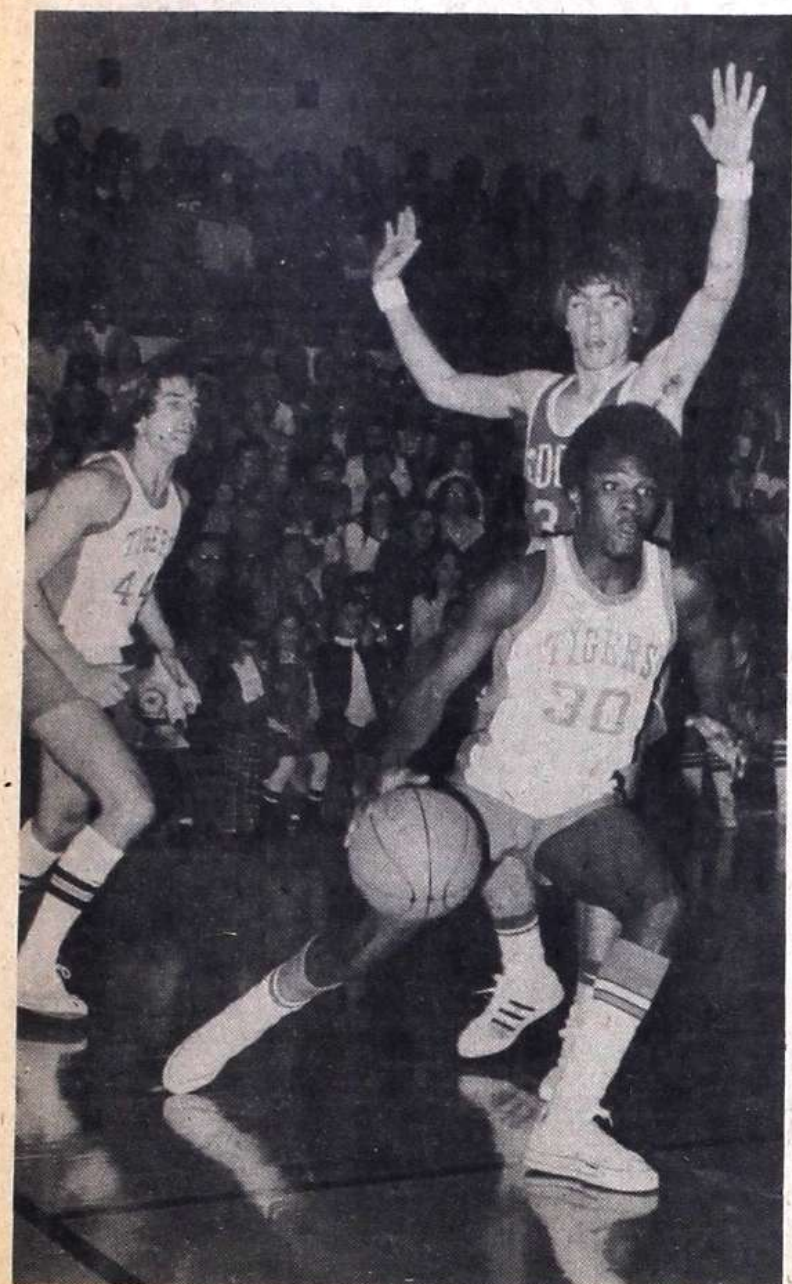

Meriweather labelled the game "as his team's best performance of the season."

'Break-away'

With Plymouth Salem's Mike Primeau towering over him, Belleville's Tim Grantham (30) dribbles past the defender in Friday night's showdown of the two Suburban 8 Conference cage powers.

Salem put the skids to a 2-game losing streak on the Belleville court as the undefeated conference champs claimed a 70-65 victory. Belleville is at home again Friday night when they will meet Dearborn.

AUTO FACTS

To position jack stands before working under a car whose front wheels must be removed, check the rear wheels. Then jack up one side until the lower suspension arm that connects the wheel and chassis is lifted higher than the top of the jack stand. Place one of the stands under the outside end of the arm, directly beneath the coil spring. Lower the car onto the stand. Repeat the procedure on the opposite side to position the second stand. Be very careful not to overdrive the edges of ramps, or to let the wheels slide off the sides.

'River Rat' rough on wrestlers

Overshadowed by state wrestling powers Temperance Bedford and Detroit Catholic Central, local wrestlers had their problems at the rough River Rat Tournament hosted by Ann Arbor Huron.

Belleville finished sixth in a field of eight with 52 points while Romulus was last with 44 points.

Bedford captured the team trophy, compiling 119 points to beat out Detroit Catholic Central, which had 97½. Trailing the leaders were Ossowo (76½), Walled Lake Western (58½), Ann Arbor Huron (56½), Belleville (52), Ann Arbor Pioneer (50) and Romulus (44).

"I feel our team is improving," said Belleville coach Jerry Malecek. "The Huron tournament offers tough competition and this is what we need."

Malecek said he was pleased with the individual performance of Kevin Bracken "who is coming on very strong."

Belleville emerged with a gold medal when 100-pound senior Greg Johnson stopped DCC's Lex Roy by a 6-3 decision. Jeff Bracken placed second in the 128-pound class as he lost in the finals to Bedford's Rod Luttrell. Stan Johnson (140) and Mark Ford (114) earned third place medals.

Kevin Bracken finished fourth in the 132-pound class when he dropped an 8-4 decision to Ossowo's Doug Swank.

Romulus had a first place winner with Lamar Sandusky who walked off the mats with a gold medal in the 112-pound class. Sandusky beat Pioneer's Dan Selinger 11-2 for the

Belleville to host Dearborn

Unbeaten Belleville will host Dearborn, the defending Suburban 8 Conference swim champs, tomorrow in "its first big test of the season."

"This is the first team that I have coached at Belleville that sincerely feels we can beat Dearborn," said Coach Sam Vicchy. "In other years our swimmers took it for granted that we would get our ears pinned back by Dearborn."

"However, this year, our boys don't feel that way."

Vicchy revealed that his strategy for the meet against the state Class A powerhouse, "would be to accumulate enough second and third places to offset their (Dearborn's) firsts."

"With the caliber of swimmers Dearborn has, they're going to have most of the first places, so we're going to try to get as many seconds and thirds as possible."

"This year the league has approved a new scoring system and with that system, teams that have depth will fare well," Vicchy said.

The system offers 8-54 points for 1-2-3 finishers, respectively, in the individual events. The winning relays will be awarded nine points, second and third places get three and one point, respectively.

Dearborn, which has won a couple of Class A state titles in recent years, and Edsel Ford, its cross town rivals, are favored to win the league title this season.

"We always welcome the challenge from either team," Vicchy concluded.

The meet will begin at 7 p.m.

coveted award. In the preliminaries he knocked off Huron's Chuck Schlimmer.

Ed Abbott, Romulus' highly-respected heavyweight, lost his bid for a gold when he was edged, 5-3 by Ann Arbor Pioneer's Dave Davenport.

Coach Avern Logan's Eagles placed fourth with Sasi Williams in the 167-pound class.

"We did a decent job against what I feel was strong competition," Logan pointed out.

In dual meet competition Belleville whipped Dearborn 33-21 while Romulus, thanks to Abbott's performance in the heavyweight class, won a squeaker 31-30 from Ann Arbor Huron.

Trailing 30-25 going into the final match, Romulus cashed in on Abbott's 2:28 pin of John Bryan for the decisive six-points.

Tiger swimmers top area listing

Though Belleville has established itself as the swimming team to catch in this area, Cherry Hill may just do that before the Western Wayne Invitational rolls around.

Posting an 87-85 victory over Dearborn Heights Riverside, the Spartans bettered most of their times and now hold down four of the 11 events.

Coach Jerry Pawloski's 200-yard freestyle relay has the best time in the area, a tenth-of-a-second (1:47.1) better than its arch-rival, Belleville.

Also, Cherry Hill's Mark Cotter has moved to the top of the 200-yard freestyle event, leaving two Belleville swimmers close behind. Cotter had a 1:55.5 while Belleville's Steve Lehman has been clocked in 1:55.6 for the event.

Cherry Hill's "super soph" is setting the pace for the 200-yard butterfly. He's covered the distance in 56.0 and teammate Randy Wehrmeister has a 52.4 for the 100-yard freestyle, the best in the area for that event.

Coaches who wish to get their swimmers' performances on the listing are urged to contact Coach Pawloski at Cherry Hill High School (PA 2-5900) or at home (941-4399) after 6 p.m.

IT'S ONLY AN ANIMAL

Dying in a steel-jaw, leghold trap. An animal that feels pain much like we do. Imagine having your fingers crushed in a car door. Nobody opens the door for 24 hours. That's what happens in a steel-jaw trap. Less than half the states have laws requiring trappers to even check traps every 24 hours. No one has cared much. It's only an animal.

Every winter millions of fox, lynx, raccoons, minks, otters, muskrats, beavers, badgers, bobcats, skunks, and other animals suffer in these primitive traps. Why? Because humans think fur coats are "glamorous and chic." There is nothing glamorous about being clamped in a trap for hours or even days, exposed to the weather, without food or water, in pain and fear, waiting for the trapper and death. Some even chew or wring off their toes or paws to escape. But then, they're only animals.

This trap hasn't changed much since the days early fur traders and mountain men used it to nearly wipe out the beaver in this country. That was well over 100 years ago. Today trapping is a sport... a hobby... a recreation. Few people trap for survival. The reasons have changed but the trap has not. The pain and suffering it has inflicted on wild animals over the years is impossible to comprehend. Still, little has been done about more humane traps. Again, the victims are only animals.

It is time to change, time to stop making excuses for this needless suffering. It is time to outlaw the steel-jaw trap.

It is the only decent thing to do—for the animals. Please help.
